An extremely weak emission of electromagnetic waves emitted by biological systems in the optical range of spectrum is known as a biophoton emission. This phenomenon is observed in all living cells of plants, animals and human beings. It cannot be seen by the naked eye but can be measured and recorded using a special equipment. It has been found that a biophoton emission is the steering mechanism behind all biochemical reactions.

Bio Resonance Technology (BRT) gives us a possibility to record a holographic image of the unique biophoton network that is characteristic for every existing herb or plant, enhance it substantially and after that “recorded” back to the carrier making its original healing qualities much stronger. This way BRT makes the best components that we use in our products, unbeatable. Using of BRT allows us to significantly increase the efficacy of the supplements, and reduce the dose of the formula.
